Bomber Crashes Near Lake

Crew Parachutes To Safety, Land Without Injuries; Plane Demolished

Five United States Marine fliers parachuted to safety in the Lake of the Ozarks region, between Lake Ozark Forest and Lakeview Heights, summer resorts, shortly before noon Sunday, but their Navy Medium Bomber, a B-25 was completely demolished when it crashed into a thick wooded section, about a mile and a half west of Lakeview Heights. With the exception of slight bruises, received in their parachute jump, the crew escaped injuries.

The plane, piloted by Captain J. W. Cunningham, 25, Winlock, Wash., was on a routine training flight. Its home base was at the Naval Air Auxiliary Station, Boca Chica, Florida. The flight started from this naval base, continued to Sherry Point, N. C., a marine base, and was enroute to St. Louis.

The plane was far off its course and, according to a member of the crew, was lost due to partial radio trouble. Off the course, the gasoline supply gave out before an emergency landing field could be located.

Crew Bailed Out
Captain Cunningham said when an emergency field could not be located to handle the large plane, he took it up to approximately 5,000 feet and ordered the crew to bail out. After seeing four parachutes open and knowing all on board were safely out, he then left the plane in his parachute.

The plane traveled approximately ten miles farther east on a course which took it to the wooded section where it crashed into the trees on the private property of I. N. Barry, near the farm of Dr. Chas. Getty.

Captain Cunningham came down on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Barb, near the old coal mine in the Lake Ozark Forest section. He was taken to Warsaw by Chalmers Barb, 20, where Sheriff Louis J. Miesner of Benton county, was contacted.

Sheriff Rounds Up Crew
Sheriff Miesner summoned the White ambulance and other aid from Warsaw to go to the locality where the men "bailed out" to search for them and ascertain if anyone was injured. "My first thought was the safety of those boys, instead of looking for the plane," Sheriff Miesner said.

Before leaving Warsaw, however, a call was placed to the Sedalia Army Air Field for assistance.

Lieutenant R. C. Wesley, 21, Pensacola, Florida, co-pilot, came down in a tall tree on the Summers farm, a short distance from the farm home of Ernest Lamphere, 69. He walked to the Lamphere home and asked for assistance in getting to a telephone or to the nearest town. Mr. Lamphere took his car and with the lieutenant returned to the tree where the parachute was recovered. They then drove to Lincoln.

Mr. Lamphere said, "I hardly knew what to make of it when this soldier fellow came to my door and said he landed in a tree."

No Use Now
A farm woman in the vicinity when asked by a reporter if she knew where the plane had crashed or if it had been located, replied: "I never heard, but the boys are safe. I don't see what they want to look for the plane for, it probably is all smashed up anyway, and isn't any good."

The three enlisted men came down on other farms. Staff Sergeant Robert F. Reed, Mishawaka, Ind., navigator, on the farm land of Jake Summer; Corporal Howard J. Fimreite, Mondovi, Wisc., and Pfc. Frank W. Wyatt, 22, of Brantley, Ala., on the farm of Norman Schnakenberg.

Captain Cunningham, the last to leave the ship, was the first to reach a telephone and notify the SAAF. A light L-5 training plane from the base was immediately dispatched to the scene and was used to search for the parachutes, men and wreckage. Later C-27 transport planes covered the scene. The lighter plane landed on a strip of 65 highway and was parked at Lincoln, while the crew continued by highway to the wreckage, a military police guard the small plane at Lincoln.

Medical Aid Ready
Also dispatched from the SAAF were doctors, an army ambulance with medical attendants, military police, armed guards and air corps inspectors. A military police car equipped with short-wave radio was at the scene and established radio communications with the planes searching the vicinity for the crew.

Sedalia is Praised on British Isle

A letter received in Sedalia this morning from First Sergeant T. M. "Tommy" Foster, to a friend, carries praises for Sedalia as given by several officers who were stationed for a time at the Sedalia Army Air Field.

The letter in part read, "I have met several flight officers in London and various places and towns, on his majesty's island and they all praise the Sedalia air base very highly and also Sedalia. In fact, after the war is over they would like to make their home in Sedalia, so it looks very much like the City Fathers and the Chamber of Commerce have done a very good job to make the boys feel at home."

First Sgt. Foster, prior to entering the service two years ago, was employed at the City Light and Traction Co. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Foster, 1704 East Sixteenth street.

Bankers Group Meetings to Be in October

Council of Administration In Session Today

Thirty bankers from throughout the state of Missouri are here today to attend a meeting of the Council of Administration of the Missouri Bankers Association called by the president, A. J. Forsythe, of Pierce City, who is president of the First National Bank there.

This is the first session since the annual association meeting held in Kansas City in May at which Forsythe was named president.

This morning there was a general discussion of the program to be carried out in 1944-45. Following a luncheon in the Palm room at Hotel Bothwell, where the meetings are being held, the council took up various association matters and made plans for the fall group meetings to be held in October, setting up tentative programs.

Group Meetings
These group gatherings will be in Kirksville, Chillicothe, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Springfield, St. Louis and Cape Girardeau.

Fifteen bankers attended a pre-council dinner meeting at Hotel Bothwell Sunday evening. Men at the meeting today include council members, secretaries of the various groups and committee chairmen. Secretary of the association is R. E. L. Hill of Sedalia, who recently came here after his election to that position, replacing W. F. Keyser, of Sedalia, for many years the secretary and who is now secretary emeritus.

W. C. Weer Will Filed
The will of William C. Weer, who died last Thursday morning, was filed for probate in the court of Judge J. E. Smith, today. Mr. Weer left his estate to his two children, Mrs. Dorothy Weer Hankla, Tulsa, Okla., and Mark P. Weer, of San Bernardino, Calif., to share and share alike.

Mrs. Earl Peters, 1805 South Ohio avenue, who received a message on March 13 that her brother, Pvt. William F. Biere, member of the Rangers, serving in Italy had been missing since January 30 Sunday received another message. It read as follows: "Based on information received through the provost marshal, general records of the war department have been amended to show your brother, Pvt. William F. Biere, is now a prisoner of war of the German government. Any further information received will be furnished by the provost marshal."

Mrs. Roy Lacey Found Dead at Home Today

Believed by the Coroner to Have Been Dead 24 Hours

Mrs. Grace F. Lacey, 57 years old, was found dead at her home, 1810 South Harrison avenue, shortly before noon today by her nephew, Elmer Paul, 128 South Park avenue, when he went to the Lacey home to visit. Mrs. Lacey died following a heart attack, according to Dr. W. T. Bishop, coroner, who was called.

Dr. Bishop stated Mrs. Lacey probably died in her sleep early Sunday morning, as it was evident she had been dead at least twenty-four hours.

Her daughter, Mrs. Carl Raines, and Mr. Raines, visited with Mrs. Lacey Saturday night and remained there until after 10 o'clock. At that time she appeared to be feeling well and at no time had she complained of being ill.

Mrs. Lacey was born in Pettis county, September 26, 1886, the daughter of the late John D. and Betty Walkup. She spent her entire life in this county and the past twenty-nine years in Sedalia. November 28, 1910 she was married to Roy Lacey at Green Ridge.

Mr. Lacey preceded his wife in death in January of 1933. Active Democrat.

Mrs. Lacey was a well known Democrat and for many years served on the city and county Democratic committees, also serving at many elections as a judge. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Carl Raines, who resides at Nelson, Mo., one sister, Mrs. D. C. Ferguson of Brandon, three brothers, Bert and Lee Walkup of Windsor, and A. E. Walkup of Orange, Calif. Three brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

The body was taken to the Ewing funeral home. No funeral arrangements have been made pending word from relatives.

China, Subject Of Talk at Rotary Club

J. Warner Brown, Of Kansas City, Is the Speaker

J. Warner Brown, of Kansas City, field supervisor of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, was the speaker at the Rotary meeting today at the Bothwell hotel.

Mr. Brown took for his subject: "China from a Business Man's View Point." He said that China is a country of 4,274,000 square miles. He told of the early days of the clipper ships in their first trade with China at Canton. He told of an indemnity fund which was returned to China to educate Chinese students in this country. These men were trained in General Electric, Westinghouse and Baldwin Locomotive companies and bought material from these firms, which in turn was beneficial to American export business. The speaker concluded his talk by urging those who travel or do business in foreign countries to study the languages and endeavor to understand the Chinese, thereby building up international goodwill.

Belonged To Rotary Clubs
While in China Mr. Brown was a member of the Rotary clubs at Shanghai and Tientsin. These meetings, he said, were conducted in English language. The speaker was introduced by Dr. E. O. Hudson, program chairman.

The business meeting was presided over by Frank W. Bryant, president. W. L. Perkins of the Lockett store was welcomed as a new member. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 3)

Earthquakes In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—(P)—Downtown buildings swayed, residences trembled, burglar alarms were set off and many persons fled into the streets as two earthquakes jolted Los Angeles and nearby cities yesterday. Two lighter quakes were felt early today in communities just south of here.

The shocks yesterday were the strongest since those of March 10, 1933, when 121 persons were killed and property damage of $75,000,000 caused in Compton, Long Beach and Los Angeles.

There was no material damage reported from the shocks, the first recorded at 5:03 p. m. and the second at 8:05 p. m. Three women watching baccalaureate services in the South Gate high school fainted during the first shock.

Pedestrians in downtown Los Angeles and Long Beach were knocked out of stride by Sunday's first jolt, which seemed to be a lifting, half-circular motion of the earth. It lasted several seconds, rattled dishes in homes and dumped some store stocks from shelves. The second shock lasted longer, seemed to be a rocking motion, but not quite so severe as the first.

Americans Advance on Saipan Island

U. S. Warships Bombard Guam for First Time in War

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, June 19.—(P)—American soldiers and marines, fighting a way through hot cane fields halfway across Saipan island in the Marianas after repelling Japanese assaults by tanks and by landing craft, drove down the island's principal harbor and naval base at Magicienne bay today.

Slightly more than 100 miles southward, American warships bombarded Guam heavily for the first time in the war. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, in announcing that this former American base had been shelled last Thursday, gave no indication as to whether an invasion was in prospect.

Fifteen hundred miles to the south, just below the equator, Mitchell medium bombers and escorting P-28 fighters temporarily neutralized Japan's last remaining effective airbase in New Guinea. They destroyed 50 enemy planes at Sorong and sank five enemy merchantmen and half a dozen smaller vessels.

Nimitz also announced that army Liberators and navy Venturers bombed Matsua, Paramushiro, Shimushiri and Shumushu islands in the Kurile chain Wednesday and Thursday and shot down one of 34 intercepting planes.

Beachhead Extended
The Saipan beachhead established by marines, with the support of army infantry units, at last reports extended from Agangan point on the southwestern tip, where the Americans landed last Wednesday, five and a half miles up the west coast almost to Garapan, the island's largest town.

Japanese units strongly counter-attacked with tanks before dawn Friday, but the Americans forced the enemy back, inflicting heavy casualties and knocking out 25 Nipponese tanks.

Early Saturday the Japanese attempted new tactics, a landing assault south of Garapan.

Headquarters said the attempt was smashed and 13 troop-laden enemy barges destroyed. There was no indication whether the barges came from Saipan, where an estimated 30,000 Japanese are entrenched, or from Tinian island three miles to the south.

American warships shelled the island in support of the invasion. The fighting line at last reports skirted the western edge of the 3,600-foot Aslito airstrip and was less than three miles from Magicienne bay on the east coast.

Nazis in Cherbourg Area Must Fight to Death or Surrender

Cherbourg—Goal of Allied Drive

Map above shows the great French port of Cherbourg at the end of the Normandy peninsula. Possession of it by the Allies means access to docking facilities that, in peacetime, accommodated the largest luxury liners, such as the Normandie, and, in wartime, can accommodate the largest warships and transports. Napoleon was the first to develop Cherbourg as a great naval station, spending millions of dollars on extensive fortifications and improvements. The military area has three main ship basins, carved out of solid rock, shipyards, drydocks, arsenals, supply warehouses and other equipment. Photo below shows one of the docks.

Invasion Highlights

CHUNGKING, June 19.—(P)—Japanese forces have made a further advance southward toward the vital Canton-Hankow railway junction of Hengyang, driving several miles below captured Chuchow in their Hunan province offensive, the Chinese high command said tonight.

LONDON, June 19.—(P)—Germany's rocket bomb assaults on southern England continued for the fifth successive day as a number of the fire-spitting, jet-propelled robot planes zoomed across the coast just after daybreak today.

STOCKHOLM, June 19.—(P)—Swedish newspaper dispatches from Helsinki today described the position of the Finnish army as "critical" as a result of the latest Russian advances up the Karelian isthmus.

Viipuri was acknowledged to be directly menaced by on-rushing Red army troops whose weight of men and materials was said to be "crushing," the dispatches reported.

ROME, June 19.—(P)—The French colonial battalions captured Porto Ferrario and now hold the "greater part" of the island of Elba, headquarters announced today, while on the Italian peninsula mud-spattered Allied troops made gains on both flanks and in the center of their line taking Assisi, the birthplace of St. Francis.

LONDON, June 19.—(P)—The wind rose swiftly in the strait of Dover today and by noon was blowing a gale from the north-northeast, with the gusts registering up to sixty miles an hour.

Conditions at sea, especially in mid-channel, were extremely bad as the gale piled the sea into a mass of high, broken waves. There were occasional sunny intervals with improved visibility but temperatures remained low. The wind was coming from one of the worst possible quarters for Allied unloading operations on the beaches of Normandy.

Farmers Near Warsaw Take No Chances on Paratroopers

Farmers residing in the vicinity of the crash of a navy medium bomber, a B-25, are taking no chances on being invaded by enemy paratroopers, as was displayed by their preparedness Sunday when the five-man crew of the plane bailed out over their section of the country, according to a story being told of the landing of Staff Sergeant Robert F. Reed, one of the crew who dropped on the farm land of Jake Summers.

It was said that the staff sergeant came to earth in a corn patch, with a cabin about 100 yards away. He released himself from the "chute" and hurried to the cabin, knocked and finding no one there stepped inside and saw a whole meal on the table.

Unable to raise anyone he hurried to another farm house in the vicinity where he was met by a group of farmers. Some carried shotguns. Upon establishing his identity he was welcomed and assistance was offered him.

One farm woman who saw the "chutes" in the air, hurried into the house and told her husband who obtained his shotgun and returned to the open, and only upon the insistence of his wife was he kept from taking a "pot shot" at what he believed might be an enemy paratrooper.

One of the farmers explained that they had been reading of the invasion, had listened to programs which told the farmers to be prepared for any invading paratroopers who might land in our country. They were not taking any chances and were prepared to do battle if necessary.

EL PASO, Texas, June 19.—The "unlucky" two-dollar bill has become the principal medium of exchange in El Paso.

So great is the demand for $2 bills here that banks are frequently hard pressed to fill visitors' needs; and as a result, exchange booths have been set up where money is exchanged at a one percent discount.

It all started when Germany and Japan seized American currency in the conquered countries and then tried to buy strategic war materials in Mexico with that seized American currency. In that seized currency, however, were few, if any, $2 bills. To foil the Axis, the United States and Mexico entered into an agreement whereby the United States permits only $2 bills and coins to be carried across the border, and Mexico has agreed to seize American currency of all denominations except $2 bills.

El Paso, being the border metropolis and the chief gateway to Mexico, has now become the home of the $2 bill. With thousands of people "going abroad" every day—many El Pasoans dine daily in Juarez, on the other side of the Rio Grande—the bills are in constant demand. Exchange booths have been set up at the approaches of the two international bridges, and the operators of these booths carry on a lucrative trade.

U. S. Forces That Severed Peninsula Are Widening Path To the Atlantic

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 19.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American troops squeezed within eight miles of Cherbourg today and shelled the strategic port with their big guns tonight.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, June 19.—(P)—The U. S. Ninth Division has crushed a German attempt to burst out of the American trap bottling up perhaps 25,000 to 40,000 Nazis below Cherbourg, hurling back a thrust 13 miles due south of the port, headquarters announced today.

The Germans lashed out in the darkness in a heavy local attack near St. Jacques De Nehou, but were thrown back with heavy losses.

Toward the eastern flank of the 116-mile Normandy front, British forces battled into the northern end of shell-toned Tilly-sur-Seulles, with the Germans still holding in the southern part of the town between Bayeux and Caen.

Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops, laying siege to Cherbourg after thrusting a seven-mile-wide corridor clean across the peninsula, now are building up strength for "the next step," Supreme Headquarters said.

German guns laid a heavier shell barrage on American-held Carentan, stronghold near the eastern base of Cherbourg Peninsula.

Other Americans on the north-eastern end of the line choking off Cherbourg fought toward the port from the Montebourg area, 14 miles to the southeast.

Berlin Report
(Berlin radio said U. S. forces had made a "slight advance in the direction of Valognes," 10 miles southeast of Cherbourg, indicating the German stronghold of Montebourg possibly is being bypassed.)

Local advances were scored on other sectors of the beachhead, headquarters said.

The Americans quickly broadened the corridor flung across Cherbourg Peninsula.

The trapped Germans appeared to have the choice of fighting to the death or surrendering. The spearhead of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's spectacular drive to capture this big port, developed by Napoleon, was the U. S. Ninth division. Capture of a French naval base would be an old story for the Ninth broke through German defenses to take Bizerte, Tunisia, 13 months ago under Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy.

United States Forces
United States forces that severed the peninsula were busy widening their break-through path to the Atlantic coast, which even last night was seven miles wide. They were driving the Germans down toward La Haye Du Puits, big road junction seven miles south of St. Sauveur Le Vicomte, into what appeared to be another trap, for one American trans-peninsula spearhead has been within four miles of La Haye for several days.

If this spearhead takes the town of La Haye, the Germans in that area will be in another pocket—between St. Lo, Tourville and the Atlantic coast.

Near St. Lo
A third American column under Bradley's command struck south of Lisson to within six miles of St. Lo, important rail and highway junction in the Vire river valley, 42 air miles south of Cherbourg. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 3)

WASHINGTON, June 19 — To a lonely mother with a son on the beachhead in Normandy and another in the Aleutians:

Dear Mrs. R.:—I have your letter wondering why you should sacrifice the sons you so carefully taught not to hate or to hurt, on a bloody beachhead where every minute they must hate and hurt in order to survive.

I don't blame you for asking these questions. Thousands of other mothers are asking them.
I wish that I could give an adequate answer.

You say that you write and tell your sons that, after it's over, life will be the same and we'll all be happy, but that, deep in your heart, you know it won't be, for there will be more wars and more bloodshed all over again.

Naturally you would expect a hard boiled and cynical newspaperman, trained to look under the rocks for all the seamy side of official life, to agree with you that we will have more wars and that your boy on the Normandy beachhead is making his sacrifice in vain. But somehow or other, I don't agree. Somehow or other,
I have a sneaking suspicion that things are not going to be so bad,
and that we may be able to prevent your son's son from doing what his father had to do in Normandy.

Maybe I am too much of an optimist, but it seems to be, looking back, that we made a lot of progress toward permanent peace between the last war and this. In the end, we failed. But there are a lot of things you do that fail the first time, or even several times, before you finally make the grade.

Kellogg's Dream of Peace
One of these tries which failed
was the Kellogg Treaty to outlaw war. Old Frank B. Kellogg, who wrote that treaty, was just an ordinary American citizen from Minnesota, not much different from the rest of us. He was Cool-idge's secretary of state, and not a very brilliant one. But he had one great dream—to outlaw war.
And he kept pecking away at it,
and hammering the idea home on the unwilling governments of Europe, until the people of Europe
were too strong for their governments, and they just had to sign
the Kellogg Pact.

I was with Kellogg when he sailed to Europe to sign his pact,
sailed with him in the Quai d'

Files For Office

TOPEKA, Kas., June 19—(AP)— Arthur Goodwin Billings, of Delphos, identified by relatives as the man whose refusal to take the army induction oath precipitated a U. S. supreme court test, filed by petition Monday as a Socialist candidate for United States senator.

Mrs. H. D. Billings, who said she was Billings' stepmother, said
the 33-year-old teacher had gone
East to attend a Socialist convention and could not be reached for comment.

A former University of Texas
teacher, Billings was released recently from military custody at Ft. Leavenworth, where he had been held since August, 1942.

Billings refused to take the induction oath after reporting for his physical examination. The oath was read to him and lower courts held he was then in the army, despite his objections. The supreme court, however, ordered him released.

Eugene W. Davis, assistant U. S.
district attorney, said a grand jury would be asked next month to indict him on a charge of failing to report at the induction center for the purpose of being inducted.

In the court proceedings he was listed as Arthur Goodwyn Billings, which his stepmother said was the proper spelling.

ardment) he scratched his signature to the document which carried the hopes and prayers of millions.

Of course, many of the diplomats who also used that golden pen on that hot August afternoon in 1928 had no sympathy with the hopes and ideals of the people
they represented — among them,
Count Uchida, whose imperturbable face gave no hint that four years later he, as foreign minister of Japan, would be snapping his fingers at the treaty he had signed.

Cynical newsmen watching the ceremony remarked that this would be another case of the League of Nations — an instrument of peace devised by the United States but which the United States would abandon. There, however, they were wrong.

Frank B. Kellogg, of course, was ahead of his time. But so were most of our great leaders — Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln. The history of progress is a constant succession of men who are ahead of their time. So Kellogg's dream failed.

Stimson's Fight Against War
However, it did not fail until it had been used — and almost successfully — by another man also ahead of his time, the man who succeeded Kellogg.

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under Hoover, was one of the few men in high position who then saw clearly signs of approaching wars, and who figured that if the world could head off
the minor wars in the Chaco between Paraguay and Bolivia, in Siberia between Russia and China, and in Manchuria between Japan and China, then we could build up a machinery of peace
strong enough to head off the major war he knew was coming on the continent of Europe.

His greatest effort was to mobilize the peace machinery of the world against Japan in Manchuria. And he almost made it.

That he failed was due to an isolationist revolt inside his own Hoover cabinet, plus the undercutting of British imperialists who put their own selfish empire ahead
of world peace.

I was with Mr. Stimson during part of that trying time. I know how heroically he labored. Three times in all, he went to Europe determined to hew out new machinery of peace.

We Learn From Failures
The last trip was at the height of the Manchurian crisis. He could not sleep. Work dragged on endlessly and he would stand in the great open window of his French cottage, looking out upon the trees and the moon and the shadows they cast on the garden.
Out among the poplars, he saw again the line of men from the fields, factories and the sea going forward, and the line of wounded
and exhausted troops going back.
A panorama of his life lay before him—the days when he was a field artillery commander in France in the last war, and all the years he had given since then to rebuilding faith and understanding between nations.

And he had failed.
These were long and sleepless

Pinky Harrison was one of those who was sure he was not going to die. He was so young and there was Martha and the baby that would be born any day now and,
besides, he hadn't been out there
long enough to learn to be afraid.
Which was why he clambered over the top of the foxhole even after he had been warned not to . . .

II

It was the heat that woke him.
The red-hot arms of the sun
reaching finally into the foxhole.
Another soldier, a stranger, sat opposite him. But no Steve. Maybe Steve had gone to get help.
He asked the soldier. The soldier nodded.

"I hope he'll hurry. We'll cook
if we stay here too long . . . you know that, don't you?"

Again the soldier nodded.

"What's a matter . . . get you bad?" Then Pinky saw the man's legs, saw how silly his question had been. "Don't talk if you don't want to. I'm sorry." He studied the man a moment . . . not a man, really, a boy, too, like him. Yet
the suffering in his face, and more the odd way he looked at Pinky; there was something strange about him. Shock, maybe, Pinky figured.

Pinky sighed. "I'm burning up, aren't you?" The soldier handed him a water canteen. Pinky drank and dabbed some of the water on his forehead. Then he lay quiet for a long while, thinking, thinking . . . for, as he said, suddenly,
"You know . . . it's funny . . .
when they're rushing you around,
it's all right . . . it's lying and waiting like this gets you to thinking. Look, how pretty it is up there . . . all those pretty little clouds . . . His voice died away, but the words went on inside him.
"And here we are down here, beatin' the hell out of each other."
He remembered the murder of the night. He lived it through

PIN-WORM
ITCH MAY THREATEN
YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Don't let your child suffer a single minute of misery with Pin-Worms!
These pests are more than just a nuisance.
Scientific facts now show that crawling Pin-Worms, living and growing inside
your child's body, can cause real distress.
It is easy for anybody, anywhere, to catch this nasty infection, often without even knowing what is wrong. Learn the warning signs—the tormenting, embarrassing rectal itching; also, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting, finicky appetite, and loss of weight.

If you suspect Pin-Worms, get a package of P-W tablets right away and be sure to follow the directions. P-W is the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines.
Thanks to this important discovery, P-W works in a special, gentle way to destroy Pin-Worms.

more than heat now. It brought smells. The smell of oil burning somewhere and of steel smoldering. And of bodies and blood.

"What's the answer?" Pinky wondered. "Hey, you . . ."
he spoke aloud now to the other soldier. "You ever thought of that?
I don't chicken . . . I'm not afraid to kill . . . but don't you ever wonder, looking at those clouds up there, what's God think about all this . . . what's He doing all this time? That's what I keep asking myself! Back home, right now
. . . Sunday . . . church time, I guess. My Martha in there praying: 'Please, God, don't let my Pinky get killed . . . please, God,
let us win.' Know what I mean?
No sense to it. 'Cause on the other side they're praying for the same thing. Know what I mean?"

He'd seen the look in the other men's eyes . . . they thought he was a goof. Pinky, they thought
. . . the dope with the harmonica
. . . thinks it's all a great big lovely game. They were wrong.
He'd thought about it; he knew what it was. But it had seemed best to pretend that it was a great big lovely game. Only now . . .
now he couldn't pretend any more.
The hot sun and the dullness throughout his body . . . and the blood on his fingers when he put his hand up to his head.

"What's He thinking about up there?" It kept running through his mind. "Why does He let it go on like this? Why don't He do something?"

Suddenly he sat up. "I wish I could speak to Him . . . close, I mean . . . not just praying. I'd tell Him a thing or two. I'd tell Him.
He wasn't aware of it, but he was sneaking. He knew something must be wrong, though, because the other soldier reached out, put his hand on his arm, firmly, as though trying to quiet him.

"What's the matter? Don't you think I could? I'd tell Him. I'd walk right up to His front porch and—"

He laid back against the sand,
laughing. "That's funny—front porch. But maybe it is like that.
Home-like and nice. Know what I mean?" He thought about it a long moment. "Yeah, just like anybody's house anywhere . . . and you could walk right up to the door and ring the bell and say,

'God, I want to talk to you.' A guy you could talk to . . . easy and nice. Just say, 'Sit down, God, let's talk about this.'"

Then he laid back again, said quietly, "I guess you think I'm crazy, don't you?"

ONE loses track of time. It seemed hours before a figure finally moved toward them, sprang down into the foxhole.

"I thought I heard you two over here."

Pinky forced his eyes open.
"About time you came." It was odd . . . the corpsman's uniform,
instead of the usual khaki color, seemed all white. Or maybe he wasn't seeing very well. Sure, lying here in the sun like this.

The corpsman reached inside
Pinky's shirt for his dog tag.

"Corp. Thomas Harrison, No.
G3-478." Pinky murmured aloud.
"Where's your stretcher?"

"We'll get one if you need it."
"That guy needs one. Legs gone."

The corpsman nodded. "He'll be all right—" and turned to the other. "Your name, please?"

Still the soldier didn't answer—
drawing back against the embankment, tense, silent.

"You won't get much out of him," Pinky said. "Shock, probably."

"You can speak to me, soldier,"
the corpsman urged very gently.

The young man did have a voice
after all; he spoke pleadingly to the corpsman: "Please, sir . . . kill me, please . . . but don't take me prisoner!"

Pinky sat up quickly. "What the hell's he talking about?"

The corpsman regarded the other soldier calmly: "Nobody's taking you prisoner."

"No?" And now the soldier moved, brushing the dust and sand from his sleeve.

Young Beets for Greens

Young beets make excellent greens. If harvested when the roots have started to enlarge and before they grow larger than 3/4 inch in diameter, they are delicious prepared with the tops attached and served within a few hours of the time they are harvested. They are both attractive and tasty. They may be used by themselves or mixed with spinach, mustard, or wild greens.

Beets are usually too thick in the row; careful thinning of the crowded plants will furnish beets for greens and at the same time give those that are left in the row a better chance to develop.

Use Spinach In Best Eating Stage

Spinach symbolizes vegetables in the minds of many people. The "Pop Eye" enthusiasts eat it with high hope. The anti-Pop Eye Society shuns it with the blanket statement that it is not good.

The factor which largely determines whether a child or grown-up does or does not like spinach is dependent upon the stage of development of the spinach.

If allowed to grow large and coarse it loses its fine, mild flavor and becomes strong and much less palatable. If, on the other hand, it is harvested when the leaves are small, young, and tender, it has a mild and very appetizing flavor. Eat it, therefore, in this most desirable, young, crisp, tender stage for best taste and enjoyment.

Make Succession Plantings of Beans
The season has been backward in all Missouri. Many families have made but one planting of beans due to weather conditions. One planting will supply beans in their best eating stage over a very limited period. If succession plantings are made, the later plantings will produce beans in the most desirable stage after the early plantings have ceased to produce.

In addition to furnishing beans in the best stage for using fresh over a longer period, succession plantings also produce beans for canning and storing in a freezer locker over a longer period, thus allowing these operations to be done in smaller amounts at a time and spreading the work out thus avoiding too great a peak load of labor for the housewife.

Nicotine Kills Aphids

Many gardeners are now finding clusters of tiny green and purplish insects on the new leaves and stems of vegetable and ornamental plants. These are plant lice or aphids. They suck out the plant juices, often causing the leaves to curl and shrivel and the plant to become deformed. Aphids are serious pests of peas, cabbage, melons and other vegetables and of roses, spirea and other flowers and shrubs.

Several other insects are often associated with aphids, two of the most common being lady beetles and ants. The lady beetles are beneficial in that they actually destroy the aphids. Ants, however, are merely after the sweetish honeydew ejected by the plant lice.

Nicotine sulfate is effective in controlling aphids. The usual spray dosage recommended is one ounce of nicotine sulfate to one gallon of water in which one cubic inch of soap has been dissolved.

A dust may be prepared by mixing 2 tablespoons of nicotine sulfate and one pint of hydrated lime. They will mix best if placed

Answer Roll Call With Poems

Oak Grove Extension club held a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clifford Mawhorter. Mrs. A. A. Romig was assistant hostess.

Mrs. Roy Petty, president, led the group in repetition of the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Roll call was answered by reciting poems, some of which had been composed by the members.

The poem of Mrs. Noah Rogers was quite appropriate for the times and dedicated to boys from Oak Grove community who are in military service.

Mrs. Elmer Mewes, leader of 4-H work, reported on present projects—sewing, poultry, garden, beef and pig.

Bond drive instructions were explained by Mrs. Petty. Mrs. O. F. Gorrell lead a devotional service and prayer for peace, after which Mrs. Paul Lewis told the story of the American flag.

The news letter and poem were read by Mrs. Charles Mawhorter. Kenneth Lee, stationed at Sedalia Army Air Field, a friend of the Mawhorter family, spoke of his experiences in induction and army life. Kenneth, whose home is in Minnesota, is in the hospital division.

Dorothy Mewes played a piano solo, "Betty Blue Eyes Waltz," by Carl Bonner.

Mrs. Ben Carson added her name to the membership roll.

Mrs. Lee May and Dorothy Mewes were guests.

A shower was given Mrs. Herbert Mewes, former vice president.

The next meeting will be July 13, with a covered dish luncheon, at the home of Mrs. Max Rickey.

Reports Success In Removing Oil Spot

Mrs. Van Jones, a reporter of the Longwood Home Economics Extension group, reported that she successfully removed hair oil spots from their wall paper by the use of Fuller's Earth.

Mrs. Jones said, "a nickel's worth goes a long way. I just made a portion of it and put it on the spot and let it dry, then brushed it out and you would be surprised at how well it took the oil out. On the worst spot I had to put a second application, but it really works."

The Office of Distribution is carrying out the price support program for eggs by maintaining a present support price of 27 cents per dozen for eggs, stated C. E. Producers are asked to report any failure to adhere to this regulation to their County Triple-A committee who has been requested to cooperate with the Office of Distribution in supervising this program.

Use Of Legumes and Fertilizers Increases Forage, Grain Yield

Atlas Sorgho (left), with soil treatments of lime and complete fertilizer, yielded 5,157 pounds of forage per acre annually over a 5-year period. The crop at the right, with no treatment, yielded only 3,030 pounds of forage per acre annually.

Highest acre yields of forage or grain from kafir and sweet sorghums can be expected where the crop follows a legume or where manure and superphosphate are used as soil treatments immediately ahead of the crop, urges A. W. Klemme of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. These crops also respond profitably to applications of commercial fertilizer.

On the upland fields of the Missouri Experiment Station in Texas county, lime and superphosphate increased the yield of Atlas sorgho forage more than 61% over a 5-year period. Superphosphate alone increased the yield 21%. The sorgho was grown in a 3-year rotation of sorgho and 2 years of wheat and lespedeza. Two tons of limestone were applied every 8 years, and 150 pounds of superphosphate per acre used with the sorgho and wheat.

Increase of 70 Per Cent

Where a complete fertilizer was used with lime, the yields of forage were increased over 70%. The yield of untreated plots was 3,030 pounds of forage per acre, that of the area receiving superphosphate

Almost all the advances on the Normandy beachhead reported today by supreme headquarters were on the American side except at Tilly-sur-Seulles, 11 miles west of Caen, where a British division broke through German defenses in a small breach and was fighting in the streets of Tilly.

All along the rest of the beachhead front there were brisk small actions as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, built up his forces for a typical "Monty" push backed up by thousands of big guns.

Beach areas were quiet, with the wind at "force two," and unloading of men and material proceeded at a rapid rate.

One officer returning to Britain said that it was quieter behind the lines on the beachhead than in southern England, where the Germans sent over hundreds of rocket bombs, causing casualties and damage, particularly among the civilian population.

But in six days of incessant bombardment with the new weapon, the Germans had failed to halt the dispatch of a single ship to the beachhead.

May Be Conserving Forces

On the beachhead side the German air force virtually had disappeared, which might be an indication that Marshal Erwin Rommel was conserving his forces for an all-out attack.

Capture of Bizerte was expected to be difficult, but Bradley's carefully engineered attack through German lines like butter and made straight for the port, leaving pockets of resistance behind to be cleared up later.

German troops in the Cherbourg area are not of the highest quality, and they have been using many horse drawn guns, many of which have been knocked out by Allied strafing planes.

The Germans have a strong perimeter defense around Cherbourg and undoubtedly Hitler's orders will be to hold on to the last. There is no chance for the German garrison to escape, since the Allies control all sea and air routes.

Take Time if You Buy a New Watch

OPA Officials Give Warning of Some Fraud Cases

By James Marlow and George Zielke

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—Take your time when you buy a watch. Be sure that you're getting what you pay for and that the price is right.

There is an ugly story of crookery and price gouging in Swiss watch sales in this country; all of the following is from OPA officials:

There are two main kinds of chiseling; sales at prices over OPA ceiling and deliberate fraud in the quality.

Watches of the cheapest kind have been dressed in special, fancy cases and faces to sell at fantastic prices.

Cheats have included not only fly-by-night salesmen and little retailers but also some of the big department stores.

Example: A group of stores opened up in a New York section. They refused to sell their Swiss watches to any but service people.

The storekeepers figured that the service people would soon be leaving New York, would be gone before discovering they had been hooded.

Different Prices

In a given city the same kind of watch may sell at five different prices, ranging from the right price to five times the right price.

This has been especially true in areas near army camps.

OPA officials say: "Retailers, large and small, generally sell at ceiling prices when they have been able to buy at ceiling prices."

"But where a commodity is very scarce, even some of the largest department stores have bought at over ceiling prices and sold at over ceiling."

Until Pearl Harbor, two kinds of watches hit the American market. Those being made in this country, and those with movements made in Switzerland.

With American watches plentiful, the demand for Swiss makes was not intense. Therefore the problem of distributing Swiss movements was not too complicated and importers could sell directly to retailers.

Price Within Bounds

This meant—with only importers and retailers getting a profit on the watch sold to you—the price stayed within bounds.

After Pearl Harbor, the government banned manufacture of the watch movements in this country for civilian use. The precision work which had gone into making them was needed for war.

After this ban on American movements, retailers from all over the country deluged importers with demands for Swiss movements. All at once the distribution problem became vastly complicated.

Seeing a juicy chance to make money, jobbers sprang into existence. Jobbers buy from importers and sell to retailers. This simplifies the distribution job for the importers but affected the price. Now three groups—importers, jobbers and retailers—had to make a profit on the watch you bought. Sometimes as many as three groups of jobbers would figure in a sale of a Swiss watch.

A jobber bought from an importer and sold to another jobber who sold to another jobber who sold to a retailer.

Thus there were five groups making a profit off the watch where before there were only two.

This meant prices were knocked around—knocked upward—in the process as retailers scrambled to buy from the jobbers and customers scrambled to buy from the retailers.

Rev. Vriezelaar To Leave City

The Rev. G. M. Vriezelaar, pastor of the Church of the Open Bible, 901 East Fifth street, has resigned his pastorate, effective June 30, to accept pastoral duties of the First Church of the Open Bible in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

and will preach his farewell sermon Sunday, June 25.

The Rev. Albert Crowley of Des Moines, Ia., has accepted a call to the local church.

Rev. Vriezelaar and family came to Sedalia August 25, 1940, when he served as supply preacher for the Sunday service. After the evening service, he was asked to conduct a revival meeting, and at the close of this he was requested to remain as pastor.

During the four years which Rev. Vriezelaar has been pastor of the church, the attendance and membership have been more than doubled. The Sunday school, originally consisting of between 40 and 50 names, now has been augmented to 100 and over. The church, previously affiliated with the Full Gospel church, upon the arrival of Rev. Vriezelaar went into fellowship with the Church of the Open Bible.

All old indebtedness has been lifted and mortgages burned. There has been much remodeling of the building and, at present, the exterior is being shingled.

Tipton Merchants Beat Hornets 4-1

The Tipton Merchants Sunday, defeated the Smithton Hornets in one of the best semi-pro games to be played in this section by a score of 4 to 1. The victory Sunday leaves Tipton with a perfect record for this season to date.

Although the Hornets outthrew their rivals 7 hits to 4, they left a number of their runners on base, but the opponents took advantage of every break to make it count in the run column.

Brunkhorst hurling for the Hornets retired the first fifteen batters to face him. It was in the fifth inning when they staged a rally combining a triple, two doubles and a single along with the assistance of two fielding bobbles of the Hornets to score their four runs. Brunkhorst settled down again after this seige and struckout seven of the remaining nine batters.

Wolf, a veteran left hander, worked for Tipton on the mound, as he wiffed fifteen batters and was untouchable when the going became rough.

The Markets

Wheat Prices Easy

CHICAGO, June 19.—(P)—Reports that senate and house conferees so far had reached no decision on the pace parity amendment dulled the demand for wheat and rye futures today. Wheat prices were easy in late dealings and rye futures were mixed.

The market was nervous as traders waited final action on the legislation.

Short covering attributed to fear that revised ceiling prices for oats would not be as low as previously expected caused a rally in futures of that grain.

Wheat closed 3/4 cent lower to 1 1/2 cent higher than Saturday, July 19. 1944. Oats were 1/4 cent lower to 1/2 cent higher, July 76c. Rye was 1/2 cent to 3/4 cent higher, July 1.10 1/2 to 1.10 1/4. Barley was 1/2 cent to 3/4 cent higher, July 1.19 1/2.

Spars Swanky New Home

The former millionaire's paradise, known as the Biltmore Hotel, Palm Beach, Fla., where the Coast Guard Spars are being trained.

During the first week of induction training bottles attend nine hours of class, learning about the service they have joined, personnel, organization and coast guard activities. Physical education classes are also scheduled, including swimming in the Atlantic ocean or body mechanics. The rest of the time is taken up by a kaleidoscope of dental examinations, taking of the identification picture, or struggling through six hours of selection tests. Last but not least comes the clothing issue, and the SPARS are decked out in blue and white striped play suits which they wear until their dress uniforms are altered properly.

The second week in boot finds them all taking turns at manning the ship, which means extra duty. Swimming and drilling instructions takes two hours

Browns Lose Two to the Detroit Tigers

Cardinals Split With Pittsburgh; Mort Cooper Wins Sixth

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hal Newhouse of the Detroit Tigers finally is fulfilling the promise he gave five years ago of becoming the finest left hander in the American league.

The 23-year-old southpaw yesterday became the first pitcher in the league to win 10 games, helping the Tigers to take both games of a double header from the league leading St. Louis Browns, 7-3 and 7-5.

He joins Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds as the only 10 game winner in the majors. Endowed with terrific speed and a sharp breaking curve ball, which helped him strike out 54 men this year, three behind Jack Kramer, the league leader, Newhouse pitched brilliantly at times, but in his four former years, always lost more than he won.

In pitching his seventh complete game of the year, Hal gave up six hits and fanned five in the opener. A home run by Rudy York with one on in the ninth gave the Tigers a clean sweep. Paul Trout, in relief, won his eighth victory of the season.

The New York Giants took both ends of a twin bill from the Boston Braves, 9-2 and 7-1, to climb into third place in the National league standings, a half game ahead of the Reds. Phil Weintraub homered in the first game, but had to leave in the third inning because of a strained muscle. Cliff Melton, making his first start since May 19, was the winner in the nightcap, but retired in the seventh inning complaining of a sore arm.

The Philadelphia Athletics beat the New York Yankees twice, 4-0 and 8-6 to drop the world champions into sixth place. Luke Hamlin blanked the Yankees with four hits in the opener, with Frank Hayes hitting his eighth homer to

The Chicago White Sox took two close games from the Cleveland Indians, 3-2 in ten innings and 6-5. A home run by Wally Moses in the tenth won the opener for Relief Pitcher Gordon Maltzberger, his sixth win of the year as against one loss. Moses' triple and Leroy Schalk's single in the ninth gave the White Sox the second game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies divided their two games, the Dodgers winning the first 7-3 and the Phillies taking the second 6-2.

St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates split a double header. Mort Cooper won his 6th game in the opener, 12-2, and Fritz Ostermuller tamed the Cards, 3-1, with three hits in the nightcap. Stan Musial connected for two triples and a double in the opener.

After losing the opener to the Boston Red Sox, 9-6, Washington took the nightcap, 1-0, behind the four hit pitching of Early Wynn. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-2 in the first game of a double header before 40,222 fans, the largest crowd of the season, at Wrigley Field. Harry Gumbert, making his first start for the Reds, was the winner. The second game ended in a 6-6 tie called after 13 innings on account of darkness. Bill Nicholson hit two homers for the Cubs.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Minor chorus — or some of the dizzy doings that actually have taken place in minor league baseball this season:

Never Too Late
At Rochester, N. Y., recently the Red Wings had runners on first and third with one out against Syracuse. . . . When the next batsman fled out, the guy on third galloped home easily and the throw to the plate was cut off because there was no chance to catch him. But the man on first wandered too far and was caught, apparently ending the inning. . . . Rochester already had started infield warmups when Dutch Mele raced in from right field and started a mysterious series of confabs. . . . Infielder Chico Rodriguez was called from the bench, and he tried to get the ball from a couple of Rochester players, who wouldn't give it up. Finally Mele secured another ball from the plate umpire and tossed it to Rodriguez, who stepped on third base. . . . Only then did Ump Roy Van Graflan break his dignified silence to bellow: "Yer out." . . . It seems that only Mele and Van Graflan had seen the runner leave third before the catch, and the ump couldn't say anything until a play had been made.

Fair Catch

In Richmond, Va., a Roanoke player casually caught a pitch as it came up to the plate—and casually handed the ball to the catcher. . . . The umpire called it a ball and Manager Ben Chapman, possibly incensed at such treatment of his finger's "swift" one, protested that the batter should have been called out for interference. . . . The argument still rages and the result may put ex-Yankee Chapman, who at last report was leading his club in both pitching and hitting, in line for the Piedmont league "protest" title. . . . Right now Eddie Popowski, Roanoke manager who learned the acts with the House of David, is given that championship by acclaim.

Fair and Warmup

Charles (Red) Lucas, former Cincinnati and Pittsburgh flinger, is now pinch-hitter, relief pitcher, and general handy man for the Nashville Vols of the Southern Association. . . . Not long ago Red was called upon to pinch hit for the Vols' pitcher against New Orleans and singled. That touched off a seven-run rally, so Lucas came up again. This time he walked and was moved to second by another hit. . . . Just then Manager Fresno Thompson decided it was time to summon his mound ace, Jesse Danna. . . . Since Lucas was scheduled to take over Nashville's mound duties, Manager Larry Gilbert dispatched a courier to second with a glove and ball, and sent Catcher Al Leitz down to third. . . . And while Danna warmed up in the box, Lucas stood on second and fired his own warm up pitches to Leitz.

Texas Schoolboy is An AAU Track Star

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—For the first time since Frank Wykoff burst into the spotlight 16 years ago, the name of a schoolboy has been written alongside the performances of the nation's greatest dash men in the national track and field record books.

Seventeen-year-old Charlie Parker of San Antonio, Tex., is the youngest who climbed onto the sprint pedestal during the two day National A. A. U. championships at Randall's Island when he followed up his 100-meter junior triumph on Saturday with victory in the 200-meter senior competition yesterday. Wykoff won the century in 1928.

The 200-meter triumph, achieved by a matter of inches over New York's Ed Conwell in the fast time of 21.3 seconds, ran to 51 Parker's string of consecutive victories. Today the Texan, rejected by the navy because of color blindness traveled up to West Point with the hopes of finding a way to enter the U. S. Military Academy.

'Bones' Sanders Hits Homer for a WAC

MEMPHIS, June 19.—(AP)—They snapped a picture of Memphis first-baseman "Bones" Sanders buying a war bond from a pretty WAC between baseball games yesterday.

As the camera clicked, Sanders turned to the WAC and said, "I'll have to hit a homer for getting my picture taken with you."

He delivered promptly—poling a homer in the first inning of the second game with the bases loaded. Memphis won a doubleheader from Knoxville, both games by the same score, 5 to 3.

SAAF Gliders Beat CMSTC

The Team From the CMSTC is Composed of Navy V-12 Men

The Sedalia Army Air Field's baseball team, "The Gliders," laid down a barrage of 13 hits, followed by some aggressive base running to slug out a 15 to 7 victory over the visiting Central Missouri State Teachers College nine from Warrensburg, Mo. in an exciting game played Friday, June 16, on the Troop Carrier air base.

The Glider batting attack was paced by Cpl. Jerome Ripley, second baseman, who potted two triples and three singles out of six trips to the plate. Third baseman Baird hit two triples for the collegians, who are all apprentice seamen in the V-12 navy unit at the college.

Cpl. Mel Bresin twirled 11-hit balls for the Gliders, but managed to stay out of trouble by effectively bearing down at crucial moments. The navy team's starting pitcher, McGusey, was replaced in the fourth inning by right fielder Jackson, who pitched the rest of the game.

Gliders earned 11 of their runs in two innings. A cluster of hits brought home six runs in the third inning and another outbreak in the fifth inning brought in five more runs. The seamen rallied in the fifth and eighth innings, but their attacks only netted them four runs.

Score by innings:
Warrensburg 100 120 120—7
Gliders 106 050 21x—15

Batteries — Bresin-Fedunjak and Hirsch for the Gliders. McGusey, Jackson and Carza for the CMSTC. Umpires — S/Sgt. Jim Duffy at plate; Cpl. Herb Dollarhide on field.

Doing more laundering?

Here's way to whiten
cottons and linens safely

1. INFERIOR BLEACHES sometimes do this to cottons and linens because their action is uncontrolled.

2. PLAIN WASHING means lots more rubbing to get things white. This also is very hard on fabrics.

3. WITH PUREX you can avoid both dangers. Used as directed, Purex whitens
gently—with controlled action. Safer than infer-

Summer car care "musts!"

Check air pressure and wheel alignment to conserve tires.
Proper inflation in hot weather is very important.

Change oil when necessary. Oil breaks down under excessive heat. Make sure your oil filter is working efficiently.

Watch your fan belt. Keep it tight to assure efficient cooling.
Costly repairs can result from neglect.

Don't overlook your battery. Evaporation is more rapid in hot weather. Add water frequently as needed.

Watch all water connections to avoid unsuspected leaks.
Hose may have deteriorated and need replacing.

Wax and polish car to keep it bright and attractive . . .
a good investment!

Your Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will be glad to help you.

Suggestion to Repair Shops

If you need parts of any kind for
